CORAM : MISS JUSTICE R.M.DOSHIT

Date of decision: 15/07/1999

ORAL JUDGEMENT

Heard the learned advocates for the respective parties.

2. The petitioner challenges the order of preventive detention dated 16th October, 1998 made by the Commissioner of Police, Ahmedabad City under the powers conferred upon him under Sub-section 2 of Section 3 of the Gujarat Prevention of Anti-Social Activities Act, 1985 [hereinafter referred to as, 'the Act'].

3. The grounds of detention suggest that two offences punishable under Prohibition law have been registered against the petitioner. Further, the police had collected some evidence by examining witnesses to establish that the activities of the petitioner, apart from being anti-social, are also prejudicial to the maintenance of public order.

4. Be it noted that one Israil Nazir Ahmed Shaikh is also the co-accused in the offences registered against the petitioner. There are other 18 offences registered against the said Israil for violation of the Prohibition law, and two offences under the IPC. The said Israil also was detained under the order dated 19th February, 1999 made under the Act. The said order of detention was challenged before this Court in Special Civil Application No. 1913 of 1999. This Court [Coram : Mr. Justice D.C Shrivastav] under its judgment dated 24th April, 1999, held that though several offences were registered against the said detenu, neither of the said offences relate to activities prejudicial to the maintenance of public order. Besides, the statements given by the witnesses also did not disclose the element of disturbance of public order.

5. In the present case, the petitioner is a co-accused of the said Israil in two of the offences and the statements given by the witnesses, though are of different dates and of different incidents, disclose the similar nature of activities. Since the Bench of this Court has held such activities not to be prejudicial to the maintenance of public order, I shall follow suit. In the present case also, it is, therefore, required to be held that the materials on record do not disclose the petitioner's activities to be prejudicial to the maintenance of public order. The petitioner, therefore, could not have been detained under the Act. The continued detention of the petitioner is also unwarranted.

6. The petition is, therefore, allowed. The impugned order dated 16th October, 1998; Annexure-A to the petition, is quashed and set-aside. Rule is made absolute. The petitioner, unless is required to be detained in some other case, be released forthwith.
